THE GOLDSMITH OF PADUA.

Last night the management of the Washington Theatre presented to our citizeus, for the first time, this "new poetic play" by T. S. Donoho, esq. It was received most favorably by the audience, and will doubtless be classed among the best plays of the modern stage. The language, plot, and effects proclaim the talents of the young author. At the close of the performance Mr. Sam'l W Ooke, Baltimore Combon was called out, when he thanked the audience for this mark of their appreciation, and apologized for a for this mark of their appreciation, and apologized for a few imperfections in the performance, attributable to the short time allowed the company to put it upon the stage.
The different parts were, however, very well performed, especially that of Vincenti by Mr. Daly, and of Bianca by Miss Parker. We presume and hope that the play may be performed again after a short interval.

COLPORTAGE IN WASHINGTON .- At the recent colporter's convention in Baltimore, the following report was made by Mr. W. J. Redstrake of his operations in this city:

"During the fourteen months that I have been occu "During the fourteen months that I have been occupied in visiting the different sections of our city, I have seen and conversed with nearly eight thousand families. I cannot tell with accuracy the number of tracts and books I have scattered over the city, but you can readily see that the number has not been small. In these visits I have met with rude and uncouth receptions from a few of the baser sort, but from nine-tenths the most cordial reception. I cannot speak in too high ferms of praise of the interest taken in my mission by pastors of every denomination.

CONGRESSIONAL CEMETERY .- At the Congressional ceme etery, which has been greatly improved during the past year, cenotaphs have lately been erected in remembrance of the following distinguished men: Hon. James Bell, senutor from New Hampshire; Hon. Josiah Evans, senator from South Carolina; Hon. Thomas J. Rusk, senator from Texas; Hon. J. Pinkney Henderson, senator from South Carolina : Hon. Moses Morris, senstor from New Hampshire; and the Hon. A. P. Butler, senator from South Carolina.

THE ODD FELLOWS' LODGE ROOM, in the third story of Odd Fellsws' Hall, has recently been refitted in handso style, at an expense of nearly a thousand dollars. The work was done by Washington artists and artisans, and reflects much credit upon them, as well as the committhe under whose supervision these improvements have been made. The Grand Lodge held their annual meet-

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS.

Monday, Not. 8.—The court met at the usual hour, all the judges being present.

The case of Richard W. Meade, administrator of Richard W. Meade, deceased, was taken up, and Mr. Buxbitt resumed his argument in behalf of the claimant. He contended that the United States government, by its action, had led Mr. Meade on to surrender all the vouchers in support of his claims into the hands of the Spanish government, and that this government were therefore bound, in common justice and honesty, to see that he obtained payment; and when a treaty was made, by virtue of which, and in consideration of the cession of the Floridas to the United States, the Spanish government were released from all the claims of American citizens against her, it was clear that, by this act, the United States assumed the position of creditor, and are bound to render Mr. Meade full satisfaction for all his claims against Spain, the justice of which was acknowledged by that government, and which he was precluded from realizing in consequence of that treaty. When Mr. B. concluded his argument, the court adjourned.
